Supervisor Success: Development Programs That Work

Event Description: As our profession transforms and our work changes, nurturing skillful and competent supervisors has become a priority for all types of libraries. Rising to the challenge, many people are creating and offering learning and development programs in their libraries. Whether we hire outside consultants or create in-house programs, we could all benefit from knowing the best practices. Let's learn together about the most effective and low-cost options for supervisor development programs, and how to strategically promote implementation of those programs in our organizations. And let's explore how we might motivate our supervisors to fully benefit from their learning. Event Page:

What are your goals for viewing this symposium?

Personal:

Unit/Department/Organizational Goals:

Discussion and Reflection Questions

Session 1 - Creating Awesome Supervisor Training: Best Practices and Techniques from the Library Field

1. What do you think are the benefits to providing supervisory development opportunities?
2. Are you in an organization that you'd characterize as (for the most part) having a growth mindset? If not, what can you commit to doing to help move your organization in that direction?

Verbiage: Strategic, ROI and Marketing (Session 3)

About This Session

*Supervisor Development IS a best practice
in and of itself!*

Development Doesn't Stop Here

Make Development an Ongoing Conversation

Kimberly Sweetman

“Workplace training must be an ongoing conversation. It is almost impossible to solve a workplace challenge with a single training session so supervisors must continually discuss their training needs and learning progress with their managers.”

Provide Ongoing Development Opportunities

DeEtta Jones

“I think the most effective approach is to offer regular, planned development experiences that expect leadership to exist everywhere in the organization.”

Annotation Tools

The tool buttons will open in a row on the left side of your screen, once you click on the marker. (if on a Mac, tools are at bottom of screen)

YOUR TURN!

Do you characterize your organization as having a growth mindset?

Yes!

Building a Supervisor Dev. Program?

Let's get specific.

What approaches work best?

Understanding Your Learners

Understanding Your Learners

What You Need to Find Out About Your Target Learners	Questions You Might Ask Them
<ol style="list-style-type: none">1. Assess what you know now. Do you need to learn more? Might you gather more information about your target learners (through interviews, reading, discussion with HR or their supervisors)?2. What are the characteristics of the target learners that may affect their learning?3. What knowledge, skills and attitudes do your target learners already have about supervision in the topic of your program (if decided)?4. What are your target learners' learning preferences?	<ol style="list-style-type: none">1. What are the biggest challenges you face as a supervisor?2. What do you think about <the topic>?3. Have you ever <before> resolved to the topic <before>? If so, what did you do? How did you do it? What did you think about your experiences?4. What do you know already about <the topic>?5. If you were to be involved in training on this topic, what would you like to learn?6. Describe the best training situation you've worked and why you liked it so much.7. Who is your favorite teacher and why?8. Think of a time when you learned a lot. Why do you think you were able to learn so much?

Techniques To Draw From

Think about the techniques or approaches to supervisor development that you've either implemented for your staff or those that you experienced yourself in supervisor development programs.

Type some of these in the chat box.

Power of a Professional Development Plan

“Consider succession planning in advance of need. Identify those in the library who have potential and interest to assume management responsibilities. This should then become part of a comprehensive professional development plan for those individuals. Opportunities for training and on the job experiences should then be made available.”

Claudia A. Monte

Take a Holistic Approach

“Management skills are developed on an evolving basis through awareness, learning, and reinforcement.”

*Claudia A.
Monte*

“Integrate new learning into daily practice...”

*Kimberly
Sweetman*

“Layer” the Approach to Learning

DeEtta Jones

- Reflective time
- Small group interaction around the reflection or a case study
- Large group exchange

Use a Variety of Modes to Deliver Content

- One-shot instruction sessions
- Self-paced training modules
- In-person sessions
- Remote learning
- Multi-session themed training

Kimberly
Sweetman

Include a Mentor Component

- Managers
- Others in your organization
- External professional coach

Hilda Weisburg

*Kimberly
Sweetman*

Combine Content Experts with Peer Learning

➤ Formal and informal communities of practice

➤ Peer coaching triads

➤ Informal discussion meetings

LEARNING
ROUND TABLE

Provide opportunities to practice

- Examples of reports generated by librarians about their program, and, if possible, 20-30 minute videos of a librarian in action all of which candidates should evaluate and then discuss with each other.
- How would they support/guide this librarian to improve his/her program?

Hilda Weisburg

Provide “In-Person” Events

- Especially for reflective topics
- Include time for synergistic exchanges
- Plan for interaction, exercises, demos and sharing of experiences

Linda Bruno

DeEtta Jones

Claudia A.
Monte

Provide Blended Learning Events

- Realistic
- Basic skills training
- But with in-person events.

Incorporate Experiential Learning

- Provide time for application
- Makes the learning real
