February Is Teen Dating Violence Awareness Month

Tips from the City of Meriden, Youth Service Bureau

Teens deserve happy and healthy relationships with their friends. They also deserve respectful and caring dating relationships. Dating violence is a pattern of abusive behaviors used to exert power and control over a dating partner. It does not discriminate; it can happen to boys or girls, any person of any economic status, any ethnicity or any religion.

It is important for others to be aware of signs that a teen might be involved in a violent or abusive relationship:

Physical abuse: Any intentional use of physical force with the intent to cause fear or injury, like hitting, shoving, biting, strangling, kicking or using a weapon.

Verbal or emotional abuse: Non-physical behaviors such as threats, insults, constant monitoring, humiliation, intimidation, isolation or stalking.

Sexual abuse: Any action that impacts a person’s ability to control his or her sexual activity or the circumstances in which sexual activity occurs, including rape, force or restricting access to birth control.

Digital Abuse: Use of technologies and/or social media networking to intimidate, harass or threaten a current or ex-dating partner. This could include demanding passwords, checking cell phones, cyber bullying, sexting, excessive or threatening texts or stalking on Facebook or other social media.

If you or someone you know is in a violent relationship, please get some help.
