What should this new policy, procedure, program look like?

Our current policy/procedure is . . .

How are things working?

The best practice for this would be . . .
Roundtable: Outcomes

• Supervisors understand the why of policies
• New policies and procedures are informed by front-line perspectives and expertise
• We have an existing forum for providing training to a large group
• We have a communication mechanism between HR and supervisors
Roundtable: Lessons Learned

- Keeping group membership current is a challenge
- Agenda & communication are usually HR-driven rather than supervisor-driven
- We made a conscious decision to allow supervisors to send non-supervisor representatives when needed

Supervisor Essentials: Format

Follow Up Trainings:

Supervisor Essentials: Content

As a supervisor, it’s your responsibility to...

The law/policy says...

If this situation comes up, you should...

LEARNING ROUND TABLE
Supervisor Essentials: Outcomes

• Supervisors got accurate information and clear direction
• We learned about (and corrected) inconsistent/non-compliant practices
• We started a conversation with supervisors (“come to us with questions or problems”)

LEARNING
ROUND TABLE
Supervisor Essentials: Lessons Learned

• Should have done pre- and post-test to measure attitudes, knowledge, etc.
• Every question we answered led to another question
• The best answer is often “come talk to us”
• We had to assure supervisors they would not get in trouble for telling us about non-compliant practices
“Changes are occurring in the industry, that are fundamentally changing traditional leadership and supervisory practices.”

- Michael R. Clark
“The leadership demographic in libraries is changing. And, it’s changing too fast to allow for “traditional” career growth, where years of experiences and coaching prepare new directors for success. Instead, many leadership positions opened by retirement and other causes are being filled by recent graduates who desperately need this type of foundational training and connection to mentors.”

- Catherine Hakala-Ausperk
Opportunities for Improvement

“Training should not occur as a result of someone making an arbitrary decision that ‘we must get better at something.’”

- Michael R. Clark
“All training programs can become more efficient and effective, with relevant evaluation and analysis, and the will to change for the better. In my experience, gaining the commitment of the organization, is absolutely essential for training programs to be successful. It is especially important that managers allow supervisors to try new behaviors on the job---not just adhere to the status quo.”

- Michael R. Clark
Advice “If I had to do this again…”

“If I had to do this again… I have gotten the opportunity to do this type of intensive leadership training again...and again - both as an attendee and later as facilitator - I believe it is the best way to lay a foundation of growth and development that cannot be duplicated, minimized or “e-translated.”

Catherine Hakala-Ausperk
Advice “If I had to do this again…”

“If I had to do this again… after our intensive 2-day, in-person workshop, I think incorporating either an in-person or online follow up one to three months afterward, would provide needed time for attendees to continue practicing the tools and methods learned, but also provide a sense of continued support.”
