

HOW TO MAKE YOUR WIKIPEDIA + LIBRARIES INSPIRATION FINDER

1. Cut out the square to the left.
2. Place your Inspiration Finder print-side down and fold the four corners to meet in the middle.
3. Flip paper over and fold the new corners to meet in the middle.

4. You should still have a square. Fold the square in half to make a rectangle.

5. Place your thumbs and fingers underneath the flaps to operate.

Read	1 Learn from the pathways that library staff have taken with Wikipedia at oclc-wikilib	2 Host a local Wikipedia edit-a-thon for your patrons or colleagues.	Learn
A Post a Facebook poll asking patrons if they know how a Wikipedia article is made.	Post a Facebook poll asking patrons if they know how a Wikipedia article is made.	Find a Wikipedia article about a notable person from your city. Cite your library resources to fix information gaps.	C
B List three cool historical sites in your city or town. See if they have Wikipedia articles that could be improved.	Do you know how many edits have been made to your favorite Wikipedia article? How can you find out?	Host a workshop for teens on how to start a research paper using Wikipedia.	D
Do	4 Search for "five pillars of Wikipedia." Talk to your colleagues about what you learn.	3	create

WHAT IS WEBJUNCTION?

WebJunction builds the knowledge, skills, and confidence of library staff to power strong libraries that are the heart of vibrant communities. A program of OCLC Research, WebJunction is free and welcome for all libraries to use, regardless of size, type, or location. Since our launch in 2003, WebJunction has helped more than 80,000 library staff build the knowledge, skills, and confidence they need to deliver transformational services to their communities.

Visit webjunction.org to:

- enroll in trainings
- view past webinars and videos
- read articles and news
- learn about our latest projects
- sign up for our e-newsletter

RECENT PROJECTS

Small Libraries Create Smart Spaces
See how 15 small and rural public libraries re-imagined and reconfigured their libraries into smart spaces—and how you can, too.

Supercharged Storytimes for All

Learn research-based methods for engaging children in storytime in ways that support literacy.

Wikipedia + Libraries: Better Together

See how libraries are leveraging Wikipedia to better serve their communities. Visit oclc.org/oclc-wiki for inspiration on how to use Wikipedia at your library.