

WebJunction is the learning place for libraries

Lifelong learning isn't just for patrons—on-demand continuing education is free for all library staff at WebJunction.org

www.webjunction.org

 WebJunction®

WebJunction is the place where public library staff gather to build the knowledge, skills, and support needed to power relevant, vibrant libraries.

Free

With support from funding organizations and state libraries, all courses, webinars, and content are offered at no charge to learners!

Convenient

Self-paced and on-demand learning means you can start, stop, and return whenever it works best for you.

Extensive

Live webinars, 55+ self-paced online courses, and 265+ curated webinar archives span topics such as: community outreach, planning and assessment, space design, social media, library programming, collections management, interpersonal skills, advocacy and marketing, and so much more!

“WebJunction has been a wonderful resource for our library system—and by extension, our community—providing our staff with relevant (and free) webinars and learning opportunities, and has become one of my go-to sites when investigating resources or planning and working on training projects.”

Public Librarian from South Carolina

WebJunction is a program of OCLC Research.

Because what is known must be shared.®

