

Accelerating Promising Practices for Small Libraries: Transforming School Library Practice

Compassionate Making Resources – Gina Seymour

Books

Seymour, G. Youth social action in the library: Cultivating change-makers. Libraries Unlimited. Forthcoming 2021.

Seymour, G. (2020). Compassionate Collaborations: School Libraries Developing Empathy and Social Action through Making. In V.H. Harada and S. Coatney (Eds.), Radical librarianship: School librarians as change agents. Libraries Unlimited.

Seymour, G. (2018). Makers with a cause: Creative service projects for library youth. Libraries Unlimited.

Seymour, G. (2018). The inclusive makerspace: Working with English language learners and special education students. In H. Moorefield-Lang (Ed.), School library makerspaces in action. Libraries Unlimited.

Articles

Seymour, G. (2019, May). Autism spectrum disorder and the library makerspace. School Library Connection. Retrieved from <http://schoollibraryconnection.com/Home/Display/2148490>

Seymour, G. (2019, April 8). Good Grief! Using Your School Makerspace for Compassion and Healing. Retrieved from Ideas & Inspiration from Demco website: <https://ideas.demco.com/blog/school-makerspace-programming-for-grief/>

Seymour, G. (2019, Feb.). Teen service programming: Because kindness matters. VOYA: Voice of Youth Advocates.

Seymour, G. (2018, May/June). Makers Making a Difference: Community Service in the Makerspace. School Library Connection.

Seymour, G. (2018, Mar. 28). 5 Autism-friendly Maker Activities + Programming Tips. Retrieved from Ideas & Inspiration from Demco website: <http://ideas.demco.com/blog/5-autism-friendly-maker-activities/>

Seymour, G. (2018, January 23). 8 Ways to Build a More Inclusive Makerspace. Retrieved from Ideas & Inspiration from Demco website: <http://ideas.demco.com/blog/8-ways-build-more-inclusive-makerspace/>

Seymour, G. (2017, June 26). How to inspire students to be compassionate makers. Retrieved from Ideas & Inspiration from Demco website: <http://ideas.demco.com/blog/inspire-students-compassionate-makers/>

Seymour, G. (2017, February). Global Themed Big Read: A View of English Language Learners Participation. School Library Connection.

Seymour, G. (2016, June). The Compassionate Makerspace: Grief and Healing in a High School Library Makerspace. Teacher Librarian.

For More on Compassionate Making and MakerCare programming:

Johnson, Mica. (2018, May 16). Developing a MakerCare Program. Knowledge Quest. Retrieved from <https://knowledgequest.aasl.org/developing-a-makercare-program/>

Vercelletto, C. (2016, Oct. 31). Struck by Tragedy a NY High School Heals Through “Compassionate Making”. School Library Journal. Retrieved from <http://www.slj.com/2016/10/programs/struck-by-tragedy-a-ny-high-school-heals-through-compassionate-making/#>

Seymour, G. (2019, Feb.). Teen service programming: Because kindness matters. VOYA: Voice of Youth Advocates.

Seymour, G. (2018, May/June). Makers Making a Difference: Community Service in the Makerspace. School Library Connection.

Seymour, G. (2018). Makers with a cause: Creative service projects for library youth. Libraries Unlimited.

Seymour, G. (2017, June 26). How to inspire students to be compassionate makers. Retrieved from Ideas & Inspiration from Demco website: <http://ideas.demco.com/blog/inspire-students-compassionate-makers/>

Grief & Bereavement:

Seymour, G. (2019, April 8). Good Grief! Using Your School Makerspace for Compassion and Healing. Retrieved from Ideas & Inspiration from Demco website:
<https://ideas.demco.com/blog/school-makerspace-programming-for-grief/>

Seymour, G. (2016, June). The Compassionate Makerspace: Grief and Healing in a High School Library Makerspace. Teacher Librarian.